What are the main features of a capacitor?

A Main key feature of this capacitor is its high working voltage i.e. up to 3000V and it cover the value range of 100pf to 10⁶F. It also has high isolation resistance which makes it an ideal choice for coupling, noise suppression, blocking, bypassing, coupling, filtering, timing, and handling pulses and storage applications.

What is a capacitor made of?

These capacitors are composed of materials such as titanium acid bariumas its dielectric and used in many applications from audio to RF. It usually made with very small capacitance values,typically between 1nF and 1⁶F,although values up to 100⁶F are possible.
