

Solar photovoltaic stocks are rising sharply now

What's going on with the solar industry?

That would be welcome news for the solar industry. Solar energy stocks have fallen sharply over the past year as interest rates have risen and once-astronomical energy prices brought on by Russia's invasion of Ukraine have eased. But there is still fundamental momentum behind the industry and that's coming to light.

Why is Solar stock up 90% over the past year?

Revenue is increasing at a record rate, mostly thanks to demand for its patented technology which can leverage sunlight during a power outage to create backup power, without the need for a battery. Accordingly, this solar stock price is up 90% over the past year.

Why did Canadian Solar stock take off this week?

Solar energy stocks took off this week as investors got some good earnings news and some interest rate relief. According to data provided by S&P Global Market Intelligence, shares of Canadian Solar (CSIQ 1.78%) jumped 9.2% between last Friday's close and the close of trading on Thursday.

Why is SolarEdge (Sedg) stock soaring 15% today?

SolarEdge (SEDG) stock is soaring 15% today. The shares appear to be rallying due to residual momentum from a rare double upgrade of the shares by Goldman Sachs earlier this week. Meanwhile, another name in the sector, Shoals (SHLS), is also rising sharply today after it was upgraded by Morgan Stanley on Tuesday.

Should you buy solar stocks in 2025?

Also importantly, Goldman expects the U.S. and European rooftop solar markets to resume expanding in 2025, and it believes that the utility-scale solar sector could also grow next year. What's more, the increased demand for electricity in the U.S. may make investors more bullish on solar stocks, according to Goldman.

How will the solar industry grow?

"Both revenues and EPS are expected to rise between 10 and 20% per year across the industry. Smaller innovative players can record even faster rates. This growth is stimulated both by new installed capacity at the utility level and by residential solar.

In the past two years, solar energy stocks have seen a lot of ups and downs. 2021 was a great year for these stocks because the demand for renewable energy was high. But in 2022, things got tougher due to supply chain issues and rising costs.
